Firm's Announces its 2006 U.S. Patent Application Filing Program for Nonresident Applicants

(Washington, D.C. – January 18, 2006) – Today, Roylance, Abrams, Berdo & Goodman, L.L.P. rolled out its 2006 U.S. Patent Application Filing Program for Nonresident Applicants. This program was created in response to our clients' needs combined with the ever-growing global economy.

Roylance Abrams' program collects the most widely requested services in connection with the filing of an English-language application in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and offers them for a single fixed fee. The firm offers three levels of service so that clients can choose a suitable level of review and advice for their application.

"We place a high priority on listening to our clients and their needs and responding to market needs in general," said Lance G. Johnson, a partner of the firm.

Roylance, Abrams, Berdo & Goodman, L.L.P. specializes in protecting and defending clients' intellectual property assets, copyrights and trademarks. Known for innovative solutions, the firm uses groundbreaking and traditional legal strategies to provide a full range of services including litigation, licensing, trade secret matters and unfair competition to companies worldwide. The firm has extensive experience in proceedings before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and prevailed in the first-filed inter partes patent reexamination. Clients include Hubbell Incorporated, Pure Fishing, Samsung Electronics, American Farm Bureau Federation and XM Satellite Radio. Roylance Abrams is headquartered in Washington, DC.
